

Joseph D. Roxe

Joe Roxe grew up on Long Island. He graduated from Chaminade and Princeton University before enlisting in the Navy in January 1959. After three and a half years as a gunnery and anti-submarine officer aboard a destroyer based in Newport, Rhode Island, he left the Navy, received an MBA from the Harvard Business School, and joined Mobil Oil in New York. He spent 23 years with the company in a variety of management roles in London and New York before leaving Mobil to become a partner of Johnson & Higgins, the world's largest private insurance broker. He left J&H in 1997 after helping to negotiate the sale of the firm to Marsh & McLennan. He continues to be active as Chairman of Bay Holdings, a private investment holding company and The Roxe Foundation.

He served on the Board of the Naval War College Foundation from 2006 to 2017, and as Chairman from 2015 to 2017. He has served as an Officer or Board Member of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, and the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and as a Dean's Council of the Harvard Kennedy School of Public Policy.

Governor Jodi Rell appointed him Chairman of the State of Connecticut Investment Advisory Council in Hartford to oversee the $26 billion of investments in the State Teachers' and State Employees' pension plans.

Joe has been happily married to Maureen since 1965. They have three children and eight grandchildren living in Boston, Baltimore, and New York City.

Joe is a Knight of Malta and a Papal Knight in the order of St. Silvester.
